

Sean McLoughlin

GSK

Sean is a leader with 20 years of commercial experience within the Biopharmaceutical industry working for GSK. His commercial experience spans all stages of the product lifecycle, with an expertise in product launches. He has built high performing cross functional launch teams with the capabilities needed to ensure successful launch of brands. These teams have led the development of fully integrated strategic and operational plans built from the customer back to deliver success. He has sales leadership experience of multiple launch products leading teams with ~100 sales leaders and professionals.

Sean holds a BSc in Accounting from Queen's University of Belfast, an MBA from St Joseph's University Philadelphia, and a Certificate of Professional Development from The Wharton School Aresty Institute of Executive Education.

Sean lives in southern New Jersey with his wife and 5 kids.